

ELEKS Cares & corporate volunteering

Another important part of building a strong community is a reason to be united around a common idea. One of key values is being responsible in everything we do.

So the option to involve our specialists is providing them with another reason to be proud of themselves and their company. By letting our specialists decide what they want to do within our CSR focus areas in their local communities is another great way to grant them the feeling of accomplishment and importance that is then greatly reflected to their attitude to their workplace, colleagues and the company in total. Some of the activities were initiated and totally implemented by the specialists.
